Join us for a special tour of a unique Austin Landmark that still operates as working urban farm. Boggy Creek Farm is a vibrant model of sustainability for both preservation and agriculture. Carol Ann Sayle and Larry Butler, owners since 1992, have both preserved the original ca. 1840s farmstead and operated the farms as a USDA-Certified-Organic Urban Market Farm, using traditional gardening practices that strengthen our local food system. Come learn more about the history of the original owners and the farm's current operations. It's a great opportunity to bring the kids, and pick up some delicious local produce.
